Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election of species A in the reply filed on 14 May 2004 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)). However, contrary to applicant's indication that claim 1-15 read on the elected embodiment only claims 1-7 read on the elected embodiment. Claims 8-20 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 4-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Karp (US 2,986,188). In the embodiment of Figs. 1-3, Karp discloses a cage nut assembly comprising a nut (11) and a cage (10). The nut has an oblong "generally" diamond shape (Fig. 3). The cage includes a flat base (15) with an enclosed aperture (14) and first and second straps (18 and 19) extending from the base to wrap around ends of the nut. The strength limitations applied to the cage are dependent upon the intended use of which the device of Karp would be capable.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Karp as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Norkus (US 6,146,071). Norkus disclose a cage nut including tabs (37) bent away from the base to prevent paint welding (column 4, lines 8-16). At the time the invention was made, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the cage of Karp with tabs as disclosed in Norkus also to prevent paint welding. The prevention of paint welding would be advantageous in Karp so that device could be used in an environment which is to be painted such as automotive without sacrificing the floating of the nut.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over modified Karp as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Teramae (US 4,074,011). Teramae discloses a nut coated with TEFLON. At the time the invention was made, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to coat the nut of modified Karp with TEFLON in order to improve its corrosion resistance and its ability to slide within the cage. This would improve the durability of the nut in certain environments such as, again, the automotive environment.

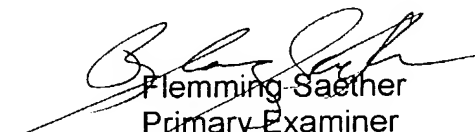

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Bedford is noted as being of particular interest since the straps (24) disclosed therein are similar to those shown in the instant invention.
